INQUIRY BEING DRAWN TO CLOSE

Official States Only Three Witnesses
Will be Examined in Harris
Investigation.

AFTER INQUEST HELD TODAY

Half Dozen Witnesses Are Examined
by Coroner Shauck Here This Afternoon.

Another inquest was held today to get more links in the evidence that is being gathered by Coroner A. G. Shauck, who is conducting an investigation into the death of Mrs. L. B. Harris, whose burnt body was found in the ruins of her home at Ashland farm a week ago last Tuesday afternoon.

A half dozen or more witnesses were before the coroner this afternoon. It is expected that the probe will last a few days yet and that the time for the filing of the final verdict of the coroner is as indefinite as it has ever been. Whether the last of this week or the first of next will see the drawing to a close of the inquiry is a matter of much speculation.

Willard Amos of 520 North Perkins street was before the coroner this afternoon. What testimony he could give which would have any bearing on the case is not known. Mr. Amos and L. B. Harris are very good friends and have been engaged in the same business.

Miss Luna Lee was another witness at the inquest this afternoon. It will be remembered that persons at the Golden Rule dry goods store called Mrs. L. B. Harris by telephone the morning of the tragedy and consulted her concerning a try-on. Miss Lee is employed at the Golden Rule.

Frank Redman, a rural mail carrier out of Rushville, testified at the inquest. It is said that Mr. Redman, while delivering mail on his route a week ago last Tuesday morning, met Paul Harris and the negro farm laborer, Philo Culbertson, as they were driving from Ashland farm to Paul Harris' home. Mr. Redman drove over a route of six miles, after passing the buggy, before he came to a point where he could see the fire at the Harris home. He was notified by Verne Brooks and James Alexander as they passed him on the way to the fire and he drove on into Gings where he notified others.

A farm laborer and a woman who live in the vicinity of Ashland farm, were before the coroner late this afternoon.

It was stated by an official late this afternoon that if nothing new developed, there would be but three more witnesses to examine after the inquest today. In that event the probe will soon be drawn to a close, in case no new evidence is presented in that time.

MILROY NOTARY MARRIES

Ed Fisher Weds Miss Thressa McNarry Montay Shulkey.

Edward Fisher, age 69, the Milroy notary public, who advertises that he "can write on the typewriter and talk at the same time," and Mrs. Thressa McNarry Montay Shulkey, age 28, were married this afternoon by the Rev. Clyde S. Black in the parlors of the Sealan House. Mr. Fisher is well known in Milroy and in the southern part of the county. He gave his occupation as a notary public, but this was changed to that of pension agent.

THEY MUST BE FOR A YEAR School Transfers Can't be Issued For Few Months.

In an opinion to Charles A. Great-house, State superintendent of public instruction, the attorney-general held it would be illegal for a township trustee to issue a transfer to a pupil for a period of two months following a township school term of seven months in order that the transferred pupils might spend the additional months in a commissioned high school. All transfers, the attorney-general held, must be issued for a year.

AARON AUSTIN, 80 YEARS OLD, IS DEAD

Agen Man, Thirty Years a Resident of Blue Ridge, Succumbs at Son's House.

FUNERAL FRIDAY MORNING

Aaron Austin, for the past thirty years a resident of Blue Ridge, died at the home of his son, John, in that town, yesterday of senility, aged eighty years. He was a wagon maker by trade and was well known in the eastern part of Shelby county and the southwestern part of this county. He was a member of the Christian Union church at Blue Ridge and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. Mr. Austin is survived by four children in addition to the son at whose home his death occurred. They are Trueman of Springfield, O.; Frank and Roy of Blue Ridge, and Miss Minnie of Greenfield, Ind. There are also several other relatives of the deceased.

The funeral services will be held at the residence of the son at ten o'clock Friday morning, the Rev. O. J. McMullen officiating, and the interment will be made in the Blue Ridge cemetery.

MARGARET STEWART AGE 90, BREAKS HIP

Aged Woman Climbs Out of Bed,
While Left Alone Today, And Falls on Floor.

HER RECOVERY IS DOUBTFUL

Mrs. Margaret Stewart, age ninety years, mother of Mrs. Taylor Kitchen, fell at the home of her daughter, at 340 West Third street this morning and broke her hip bone. Due to the extreme old age of Mrs. Stewart, some fear is entertained that she might not recover. She has been compelled to remain in bed for some time, but managed to get up this morning while she was left alone. It has been the experience of physicians that people as old as Mrs. Stewart who sustain broken bones seldom ever have vitality enough to resist the shock and to withstand the suffering entailed.

Mrs. Kitchen left her mother for a moment this morning, while she ran downstairs, and it was during this time that Mrs. Stewart managed to get up. After she got out of bed she just fell over on the floor and her hip was broken. Mrs. Kitchen placed a sewing table in front of the bed to keep her mother from climbing out of bed, but in some manner she pushed it away.

HALL'S CHANCES NOT VERY GOOD

Was Expected Sam Ralston Would be Nominated by Democrats in Indianapolis Today.

LOCAL MAN HAD 300 VOTES

Samuel L. Trabue Represents Sixth
District on Resolutions Committee.

It was expected that the slate of the Crawford Fairbanks-Tom Taggart political machine for the State Democratic ticket would be selected at the State convention in Indianapolis today. Samuel M. Ralston of Lebanon was the choice of the machine and there was little doubt but what he would be nominated, thus eliminating Lieutenant Governor Frank J. Hall of this city.

It has never been conceded by Indianapolis political writers that Gov. Hall had a ghost of a show. It has been said by those in close touch with the Democratic political leaders that Frank J. Hall could have been nominated as lieutenant governor again, had he kept out of the gubernatorial nomination race, but he insisted on being a candidate.

Before the time for nominating the candidate for governor today, Lieut. Gov. Hall's friends were attempting to induce him to withdraw from the race, so that the nomination of Ralston might be made by acclamation. Otherwise, it was expected Ralston would be nominated on the first ballot. He had several hundred more votes pledged than were necessary.

It was expected that Frank J. Hall would receive the complimentary vote of the counties of the Sixth district on the first ballot and the votes which Congressman John W. Boehme obtained before he withdrew from the race. The Sixth district has 118 votes in the State convention. Mr. Boehme had less than 150 scattering votes which his friends could throw to Mr. Hall, so that the latter probably will not receive more than 300 votes even if he decides to remain in the race.

Among the counties where the vote probably could be held for Lieut. Gov. Hall are Allen with 25 votes; Crawford with 8; Tippecanoe, 26; Noble, 17; Lagrange, 3 of the 7 votes; Vanderburg, 44; and Parke, 7 of the 13 votes.

But it was by no means certain that all of these votes could be held for Lieut. Gov. Hall. Allen county has a candidate for supreme judge, R. K. Irwin; Vanderburg has one candidate for State office, and the neighboring county of Warrick in the First district has another. The candidates of Mr. Irwin from Allen, Judge J. W. Spencer of Vanderburg for supreme judge and of Dr. T. D. Seales of Warrick for lieutenant governor will make it necessary for the First district even to give a portion of its votes to Samuel M. Ralston.

A number of local Democrats were in attendance at the convention today and were interested on-lookers while the balloting was on. Samuel L. Trabue, chairman of the Rush county Democratic central committee, acted as the Sixth district representative on the important committee on resolutions, which met last night.

At the meeting of the Sixth district delegates last night practically the only contest was for the places of delegates to the national convention, but it was not a very serious contest. The names of three were proposed: H. L. Ashley of Richmond; Francis M. Alexander of Brookville, and F. A. Bosler of Newcastle but only one ballot was necessary for the selection of Ashley and Alexander. There was some difficulty in obtaining a contingent elector. The name of Herman

MAY CONSIDER PHONE BUSINESS

Merchants Will Likely Discuss Con-troversey Between Local and Greensburg Companies.

OVER SITUATION AT MILROY

New Officers For Ensuing Year Will be Elected Tonight—Good Attendance Asked.

It is not improbable that the telephone controversy carried on between the Rushville Co-Operative Telephone Company and the Decatur County Independent Telephone Company will be considered at the meeting of the Rushville Retail Merchants Association tonight.

The merchants of Greensburg have boasted they are now getting three-fourths of the business from Milroy, largely due to the present telephone facilities, and they are planning, according to their avowed intentions, to stir up Milroy patrons of the local company to make a kick against the change in Greensburg rates which will go in effect the first of next month.

For the last ten years Milroy people with the Rushville Co-Operative Company's telephones have had advantage of a thirty-cent monthly rate charge to Greensburg or any point in Decatur county. Patrons of the Decatur county company have been allowed to talk to Milroy free of charge and they have been compelled to pay a twenty-cent toll to talk to persons at any other point in Rush county.

The local company has been charging a fifteen cent toll to any point in Decatur county for any patron in Rush county with the exception of Milroy patrons who took the monthly flat rate service. Patrons outside of Milroy have asked for the flat rate service and the company has been compelled to give it to them. The local company holds that refusal to do so would be discriminating against certain patrons, which would be wrong, since the company is a co-operative organization in which the patrons are shareholders.

Beginning the first of next month a new order will go in effect, which will make a ten-cent toll charge for Milroy patrons to talk to any place in Decatur county, and will do away with the flat rate monthly charge. Heretofore Milroy patrons, without the flat rate service have been compelled to pay a fifteen cent toll. The change is being made by the local company in order to get better service for Milroy users of the local phones. The people having flat rate service, according to W. T. Jackson, have utilized the phones most of the time to the detriment of the system. The local company figures it will not get any more money with the single toll charge than it has under the flat

WINDSOR HOTEL IS SOLD

New Owner Will Take Possession
March 29.

W. E. Wallace and son, Leven Wallace, sold their interest in the Windsor hotel yesterday to V. K. Brown of Greensburg. Mr. Brown will take possession March 29. The new owner is an experienced hotel man and recently sold the D. Armond hotel in Greensburg. At one time Mr. Brown was manager of the McFarlan hotel in Connorsville. W. E. Wallace will retire and Leven will remain in the employ of Mr. Brown. The Wallaces have been in charge of the hotel for about three years.

rate plan, but it believes the service will be better.

It is understood that Milroy patrons have not a complaint so much against charges as they have against the service. They complain that they need better equipment in order to get better service. The Greensburg business men have taken advantage of this condition and have made some Milroy merchants and other patrons believe they should be given free service to Decatur county when they have no more right to free service to the adjoining county than any phone patron in Rush county.

It is expected that the merchants meeting tonight will be largely attended as this is the time for the annual election of officers. A new president, secretary and treasurer will be elected to succeed Anthony Schrichte, Will O. Feudner and G. P. Hunt. The merchants association has thrived under the present management and it is hoped by the business men generally that another set of officers will be chosen tonight which will carry on the business of the association as effectively as the retiring officers have.

It is understood that several matters of importance will be discussed at the meeting tonight.

PLAYS HAVOC WITH WIRES AND TREES

Severe Storm and Change in Temperature Last Night Does Damage
Over County.

TELEGRAPH LINES DOWN

The storm last night played havoc with the telephone and telegraph systems throughout Rush county. Thunder and lightning accompanied the heavy rain and it is said that considerable damage was done to fruit trees and other growing things that were beginning to show the effects of the few warm days this month. The rain of yesterday afternoon and evening caused the trees to be water-soaked, and the sudden change in temperature last night froze the water on the limbs of trees, telephone wires and every place where water stood any length of time. The weight of the ice on tree limbs caused them to hang down over the roads and some difficulty was experienced by travelers over the county last night. Telegraph service in and out of Rushville was not re-established this morning until about eleven o'clock. The I. & C. had considerable trouble with their lines today, due to the frozen ice on the trolley wires and the water standing in the tracks.

MRS. LOUISA LEWIS DEAD

Tuberculosis Claimed Aged Resident of Fairview.

Mrs. Louisa Lewis, 73 years old, wife of William D. Lewis, died last night at 7:50 o'clock at her home in Fairview after a long illness with tuberculosis. Mrs. Lewis was a well known and highly respected woman. She married Mr. Lewis fifty-two years ago last January. Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Miss Dolly Lewis and two brothers, Rufus Gibbs of Fairview and William Gibbs of Coldwater, Mich. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Fairview church. Burial will take place in the church cemetery.

ONE STRICKEN; TWO SUCCUMB

Caesar Crosby Found Unconscious,
Sitting at Switchboard in Milroy
Exchange at Noon.

DEATH MATTER OF FEW HOURS

Tony Vogelsson, Milroy Shoemaker,
44 Years, and Mrs. Clifford
King, 21, Expire.

BULLETIN: Caesar Crosby died at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Milroy was visited by a series of deaths and calamities today and last night. Caesar Crosby, the aged man who is in charge of the Rushville Co-Operative Telephone Company's exchange at Milroy, was stricken with apoplexy during the noon hour today; Tony Vogelsson, the veteran shoemaker of Milroy, died last night, and Mrs. Clifford King, a young married woman, expired at her home southwest of Milroy, last night after a long period of illness.

The stroke of apoplexy which Caesar Crosby sustained some time between twelve and one o'clock today was a great shock to the people of the Milroy neighborhood. He was found by a member of his family, about fifteen minutes to one, sitting bolt upright at the switchboard in the telephone exchange, but wholly unconscious of his surroundings. It is said that his death is but a matter of a few hours.

Caesar Crosby had been in very good health, and had not complained lately of feeling badly. His sudden illness came as a great surprise. Mr. Crosby is about sixty-five years old. He has been in charge of the Milroy exchange for the last eight years. He is a brother of Ed Crosby of 926 North Morgan street. Mr. Crosby was a miller by trade and has been employed in Rushville where he is well known.

Tony Vogelsson, who died at thirty minutes past last midnight, had been plying his trade as a mender of soles and maker of shoes in Milroy for forty-four years. He was a very interesting old figure on the streets of Milroy, where he was known by every man, woman and child.

Mr. Vogelsson was born and reared in Germany and came to America with his parents while yet a child. Early in life he settled in Milroy, where he has lived ever since. He had been sick for the last two years with the infirmities of old age and his death was not unexpected. Mr. Vogelsson was sixty-seven years old. The funeral will be held Saturday and burial will take place in Oldenburg. A widow survives him.

Mrs. Clifford King, age twenty-one, expired last night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Boicourt, who resides just over the line in Decatur county seven miles southwest of Milroy. Her death was due to exophthalmic goiter with which she had suffered for a year or more. She is survived by a husband and several brothers and sisters, besides her parents.

April Fool Joke.

What has become of the robust old fashioned April Fool joke?

Where is the wool doughnut, so fried and browned in fat as to deceive the very elect? Where is the empty purse nailed down to the sidewalk? Where is the April Fool placard attached to the back of the sedate and conservative citizen as he marches majestically through the streets of the town?

April Fool's day, like St. Valentine and many other traditional old customs, seems largely to have fallen into the hands of the youngsters. Annually we still hear of Tommy asking Johnny if he sees the bird up in that tree, or if he is going to the circus this afternoon. But it is several years doubtless since your wife has tried to fool you, or you have tried to fool her. Perish the thought, but are you growing old?

Anyway, we must admit our admiration for the people who still retain enough of play spirit and the child heart to keep up the pranks and festivals of childhood. There are still adults who get more fun out of the candles and glitter of the Christmas tree than from the most expensive present. And one hopes there are still households in which the sporting chance of fooling your better half is much more interesting than a flier in stocks.

It would promote the pocketbook of the coal operators to arbitrate and settle now, but they do not mind spending a few millions for the sake of acquiring unpopularity.

Mayor Gaynor says he goes to sleep and lets the cats howl, but if he wants to promote equality of opportunity for the human race, he should shy a few boots and hair brushes at them.

If the beef packers should be jailed a universal move on the part of the consumers of the country to send them flowers should be frowned upon as unnecessary.

China's finances are in bad shape. The people who thought they could get an appropriation for rivers and harbors are likely to be deprived of the sacred privileges of freedom.

So long as the Allen outlaws find such wholesome occupation as shooting up the detectives, they will never endanger their health by coming down to town and going to work in the factory.

The anti-tip crusade reminds us of the time they planned to have all the inhabitants of the world holler at the same moment, and everyone kept still to hear the rest shout.

If Capt. Amundsen is to have a chair in the university of Christiania, it would be an appropriate thing to build it out of the pole he has brought home.

Of course the disappearance of those sugar trust letters is due to the flighty stenographer whose mind is on the matinees instead of her work.

The Senate had a discussion on economy the other day, in spite of the fact that it is bad manners to mention this disagreeable subject in congress.

After the monotony of a dull winter, those outlaws who are being pursued through the Virginia mountains must be having all kinds of fun.

Supplying goods to Mexico and Central America revolutionists is one of the principal exports in the sporting goods trades nowadays.

The presidential primary is being adopted in many States, and in view of the way the voters act, one would think the presidential kindergarten would even be better.

The Democrats evidently feel that the tariff board's facts are mighty inconvenient things to have around when the political trades are being completed.

If spring did not wear her earmuffs furs and overshoes today, it's her own fault, for she has been warned in advance.

Anyway Frank J. Hall ought to understand why the delegates to the Democratic State convention can't vote for him. He has been in the party of Tom Taggart long enough to know that when Tom says the delegates shall vote such a way, they shall do his bidding.

STILL AT LARGE

The Allen Gang Continues to Give the Officers the Slip.

Mount Airy, N. C., March 21.—Reports have reached here to the effect that two men, thought to be Freil Allen and Wesley Edwards, members of the Allen gang, had been seen walking along the tracks of the Southern railway, eight miles southeast of here, heading for Pilot mountain, fifteen miles away.

As soon as the report was received a posse was organized to pursue the men. Pilot mountain is a station on the Southern railroad on the border of Curry and Stokes counties.

Two boys, fifteen years old, visited several stores in the city and purchased bread and a quantity of canned goods. The officers were notified and pursued the youngsters, who had gone in the direction of the mountains, but were unable to overtake them. It is certain that these boys are doing the foraging for the fugitives.

Jury Couldn't Agree.
Independence, Kan., March 21.—After being out since Saturday afternoon and failing to reach a verdict, the jury in the third trial of A. A. Truskett of Caney, Kan., charged with the murder of J. D. S. Neely, the Ohio-Indiana oil promoter, was discharged.

BALDHEADS

More Women Are Bald Than Men Says Authority.

This is a startling statement but it's true according to an article published in a standard magazine this year.

One thing is certain PARSIAN SAGE will surely prevent baldness by stopping the hair from falling, but it won't grow hair after the head is bald.

Ladies, look after your hair, destroy the dandruff germs with PARSIAN SAGE and dandruff will disappear. It stops scalp itch over night and is guaranteed to be the most refreshing, refined and agreeable hair dressing that can be obtained. Sold by F. B. Johnson & Co. and druggists all over America for 50 cents.

"My hair was falling out, and I was troubled with itching scalp. I received no benefit until I tried PARSIAN SAGE."—Mrs. George Thunders, R. F. D. 5, Marshall, Mich.

TO HELP JOBBERS OF INDIANAPOLIS

Extension of I. & C. by Way of Rushville and Brookville Would Open Undeveloped Territory.

TRADE ASSN. TO INVESTIGATE

In line with its fight for more trade for this city, the Indianapolis Trade Association has planned a trip to Brookville next Tuesday, and while in that city the members of the association will look into the advantages of the plan to extend the Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction line to Cincinnati by way of Brookville and Rushville, instead of by way of Greensburg, which is also under consideration, says the Indianapolis News today.

The invitation to visit Brookville came from the Business Men's Association of that city, and the trade association has accepted the proposal to talk over the traction extension matter without necessarily committing the trade association to any definite course of action.

The Brookville men have pointed out that the extension of the Commersville division through Brookville to Cincinnati will open up about fifty miles of territory which at present has no direct connection with Indianapolis, as at present, it requires two days for persons living in that territory to come to Indianapolis, transact business and return home. Because of that condition the territory in question is gobbled up by the Cincinnati jobbers, and Indianapolis finds it hard to compete with them, although dealers in that territory are naturally friendly to this city.

THREATENS TO MAKE A SENSATIONAL EXIT

Paris Anarchist Causes Consternation In Police Circles.

Paris, March 21.—The police, detectives and magisterial authorities were thrown into a state of consternation over a letter received at the office of Le Journal. The letter purported to be signed by Garnier, the noted anarchist, who is suspected of having shot the bank messenger in the hold-up on the Rue D'Or. It said the writer was sick of the whole affair and had determined to surrender, but that he would do this in his own way. Garnier stated that he intended to visit the offices of either M. Lepine, the prefect of police; M. Bertillon, the finger print expert, or some other official, empty two revolvers on the occupants, and then commit suicide with the last bullet. Beside the signature of "Garnier" was a finger print.

Although the letter was at first regarded as a joke, a reporter of the paper took it to M. Bertillon, who after an examination declared the finger print and the handwriting of the letter identical with those possessed by the police, which were known to be Garnier's. As a result of this all officialdom is on tenterhooks awaiting a visit from Garnier, who is known to be capable of carrying out his threat.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE Main and Third Streets THE CORNER STORE

NECKWEAR TO PLEASE
A neck neckpiece tops off the entire dress, so be not too hasty in the choosing. You may just as well secure something that is "different" at the same price. Many styles, shapes, and sizes are here in lace collars, jabots, side frills, and collar and cuff sets.

LADIES HOME JOURNAL PATTERNS
Better than the rest, best by test.

OUR TRADING STAMPS
will enable you to get many articles for the home that perhaps otherwise you would never get.

AN UNUSUAL SHOWING OF NEW WASH FABRICS.
Truly a representative collection. Quality is a strong feature. The wonderful variety of weaves and the distinctness of the designs will be sure to please you. Among them, argente will bid high for your favor.

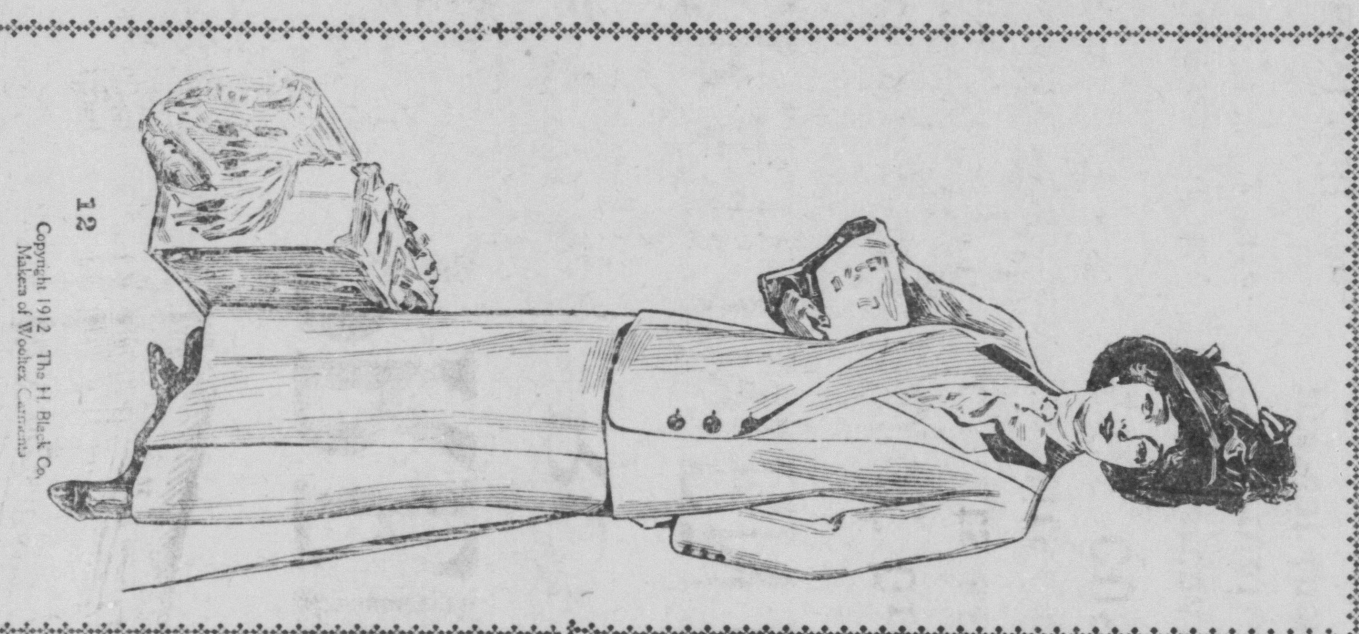

CORSETS
Foundation determines the final hypernancy, and that foundation should be a 1912 model, correct in style and size, and honest in construction. Our expert corsetiere is at your service.

HOSIERY.
Lisle silk hosiery and pure silk hosiery rival one another in their appeal to the sense of the beautiful. You will find here shades to match any of your dresses or shoes.

EASTER FOOTWEAR
Fashionable footwear, properly fitted, brings to the wearers as much genuine pleasure as any accessory of dress. To be fashionable, shoes must not be freakish. It will delight your eyes to see the white Nt-Buck boots, the new Husser boots, the white canvas boots, the brown suede boots, the black patent leather boots with white tops, the tan boots, and all manner of styles in low shoes. A call now before the sizes are broken will insure you against disappointment. Ever eager to show the best lines we feature Queen Quality, J. & K. and Wright, Peters & Co.

OUTER-WEAR
Reflecting in its mirrors the welcome of the coming spring days, our outer garment department presents not a few styles, but an embracing display of the best models, materials and coloring for spring—a display that further emphasizes the supremacy of Rushville's largest ready-to-wear department. A remarkable assemblage of tailored suits, coats, skirts, costumes, dresses and waists, waits to greet you, and separately, to convince you of their adaptability to your own form and purse. With Easter but two weeks in the fore, it is imperative that you make your choice soon in order that any needed alterations may be made. To show you is ever our pleasure. This is the store that sells Wooltex.

NEW FLOORCOVERINGS
The third floor invites you to a display of new floorcoverings, such as is not to be found elsewhere in Eastern Indiana. Unhindered by lack of space, we are enabled to carry on our floor everything in rugs—every size made—carpet, velvet, Brussels, and Ingrain carpets, matting, filling and all widths of linoleum. Selection is much more satisfactory where all lines are represented. In making your changes for spring, grant us the privilege of showing you through this immense display.

CORRECT WOOLENS
A magnificent complete stock of the newest Dress Goods that includes every weave favored by fashion.

GLOVES OF QUALITY
Easter issues a call year after year for new gloves. The kind you want are those that look well and at the same time wear well. Gloves, backed by a combination of skillfulness and service, are the kind you purchase over our counters. The variety of shades, in either silk or kid, the varied assortment of sizes and lengths, recommend them to your consideration.

SILKS, THE IRRESISTIBLE.
Another big season in silks faces us—silks for street, afternoon and evening wear—and this store is equipped in a peculiar manner to meet your every need. Most of them are offered in only one pattern of a kind, thus assuring you exclusiveness. All are radiant of the very breath of spring, and foster in the wearer a sense of newness, not to be derived from any other fabric.

HARMONIOUS DRAPERIES
Few things add so much to the appearance of a room as beautiful harmonious draperies. Informed salesladies can assist you a great deal in your choice of tapestries, nets, chintz, damasks, serims and colonial fabrics, and suggest to you many pleasing ways of using these as overhangs in connection with lace curtains. They will also help you plan your upholstery with cretonne, fancy ticking, burlap, silkoline and panta-sote.

TRIMMINGS, NEW AND EXCLUSIVE.
After all it is the trimmings and small accessories that give to a costume its distinction. Brilliant, noble and very much out of the ordinary you will pronounce our purchases in this line. One ornament rightly placed and in harmony, will do more for a dress than yards of material and countless stitches.

Simultaneously with the launching of the plan to give "S. & H." Green Trading Stamps with all cash purchases, this store will contrive an exhaustive showing of the season's fashion dictates, and an unusual exposition of style tendencies for Eastertide. Every department is radiant with new, out-of-the-ordinary values, collected personally in the New York market, and displayed now for the first time in this community. The charm of newness pervades all these offerings, and their attractiveness is enhanced by the knowledge that they are authoritative. The Daylight Store, clad in its spring-time garb, bids you to a careful scrutiny of its exhibits, at this, the dawn of a new era in merchandising in Rushville. A visit will convince.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess offers a Biograph feature tonight is the thrilling drama, "The Eternal Mother." "The Eternal Mother" tells a story of how a happy home is broken up by a woman. The picture is said to be the best of the Biograph films. The second picture is a Lubin comedy, "A Dark Deception."

The Portola has a Vitagraph for the first picture tonight. It is entitled "A Course of True Love." The other film is an Edison, "A Question of Seconds." Tomorrow night a benefit show for Mrs. F. G. Hackleman's Sunday school class will be given. Three reels of pictures and special music are on the program.

"The Honor of the Tribe," the first picture at the Palace tonight is a beautiful picture of water, pine trees and a level reach of clouds. It is the story of a jealous husband and the tragic ending of his wife, who desires to leave the tribe. "The Best Man Wins" is a Nestor film. A pretty heroine, the prettiest kind of scenery and natural acting will be found in this picture, which tells a romance in rural settings. A plowing contest is held to see who shall get the farmer's daughter and the winner is a surprise to everyone.

"Louisiana Lou," the big musical comedy by Addison Burkhardt, Frederick Donaghey and Ben M. Jerome, which had its initial presentation in Chicago this season and which has enjoyed such a long and prosperous run at the LaSalle opera house in that city, will be the attraction at English's opera house, Indianapolis, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 21, 22, and 23, with a Saturday matinee. It is described as a Merry trip to the Mardi Gras, and is said to have the best singing, dancing, looking chorus in the world. Mr. Askin has provided a cast of unusual excellence, including many of the musical comedy favorites of the day and the scenic equipment is magnificent.

Trichler of Brookville was proposed, but he declined. Despite this he was elected unanimously.

All the seats in the Tomlinson hall was filled with the delegates, party workers and mere onlookers when Bernard Korbly, chairman of the Indiana state Democratic committee, called the state convention to order today. Following the invocation, Burt New, secretary of the state committee, read the call for the convention, and Chairman Korbly introduced Governor Marshall as the temporary chairman of the convention. The governor's appearance was the signal for a storm of applause, and the state's chief executive entered upon the delivery of his "keynote" speech, cheered by this spontaneous attestation of the esteem in which he is held by his party. The governor spoke for more than an hour, and his address was frequently interrupted by the most enthusiastic applause.

Governor Marshall gave an extensive review of the work of the two legislative sessions during his administration, declaring that in many statutory enactments the party had kept faith with the cause of the people. He touched at considerable length upon the last legislature's proposition looking to the adoption of a new state constitution. The question as to whether the people of this state have a right to vote upon this constitution is now before the courts, he pointed out, and, while saying that he would quietly abide by the decision of the court, if adverse to his views, he would be in favor of calling a special election in order to get rid of the lawyers' amendment which has so long stood in the way of proposing other amendments to the constitution, and would then have the party insist upon further legislative action that would provide a lawful means for presenting these proposed changes to the people for their adoption or rejection. The governor closed by impressing upon the delegates the meaning of "the sacred burden which rests upon your shoulders this day."

Following the report of the committee on credentials and organization, Governor Marshall turned the gavel over to Senator John W. Kern, who had been named permanent chairman of the convention. Senator Kern was given a heart-warming ovation as he advanced to take charge of the convention's deliberations, and he responded in a brief address which evoked the further enthusiastic applause of the delegates. The reading and adoption of the resolutions of the convention, or party "platform," followed and the convention then settled down to the work of naming a ticket. For those offices whose present incumbents had no opposition, the incumbents were renominated by acclamation, as follows:

Secretary of State—Lew G. Ellingham of Decatur.
Auditor of State—William H. O'Brien of Lawrenceburg.
Treasurer of State—William H. Volmer of Vincennes.
Attorney General—Thomas H. Honan of Seymour.
Superintendent of Public Instruction—Charles A. Greathouse of Indianapolis.
State Statistician—Thomas W. Broley of North Vernon.

At this hour the nomination of Samuel M. Ralston of Lebanon for governor practically is conceded, it being apparent that the greater part of the delegates are for him. An interesting contest is on for the nomination of candidates for lieutenant governor, reporter of the supreme court, and the several judges, and it will be late before the convention concludes its work.

He had built his cabin on a level shelf of rock perhaps fifty by a hundred feet in area. It was backed up against an overhanging cliff, otherwise the rock fell away in every direction. She divined that the descent from the shelf into the pocket or valley spread before her was sheer, except off to the right, where a somewhat gentler acclivity of huge and broken boulders gave a practicable ascent—a sort of titanic stairs—to the place perched on the mountain side. The shelf was absolutely bare save for the cabin and a few huge boulders. There were a few sparse, stunted trees further up on the mountain side above; a few hundred feet beyond them, however, came the timber line, after which there was nothing but the naked rock.

Below several hundred feet lay a clear, emerald pool, whose edges were bordered by pines, where it was not dominated by high cliffs. Already the lakelet was rimmed with ice on the shaded side. This enchanting little body of water was fed by the melting snow from the crest and peaks, which in the clear, pure sunshine and rarified air of the mountains seemed to rise and confront her within a stone's throw of the place where she stood.

On one side of the pretty lake in the valley, or pocket, beneath, there was a little grassy clearing, and there the dweller in the wilderness had built a rude corral for the burros. On a rough bench by the side of the door she saw the primitive conveniences to which he had alluded. The water was delightfully soft and as it had stood exposed to the sun's direct rays for some time, although the air was exceedingly crisp and cold, it was tempered sufficiently to be merely cool and agreeable. She luxuriated in it for a few moments, and while she had her face buried in the towel rough, coarse, but clean, she heard a step. She looked up in time to see the man lay down upon the bench a small mirror and a clean comb. He said nothing as he did so, and she had no opportunity to thank him before he was gone. The thoughtfulness of the act affected her strangely, and she was very glad of a chance to unbraided her hair, comb it out and plait it again. She had not a hair pin left, of course, and all she could do with it was to replait it and let it hang upon her shoulders. Her coiffure would have looked very strange to civilization, but out there in the mountains, it was eminently appropriate.

Without noticing details, the man felt the general effect as she limped back into the room toward the table. Her breakfast was ready for her. It was a coarse fare, bacon, a baked potato, hard tack crisped before the fire, coffee, black and strong, with sugar, but no cream. The dishes matched the fare, too, yet she noticed that the fork was of silver, and by her plate there was a napkin, rough dried, but of fine linen. The man had just set the table when she appeared.

"I am sorry I have no cream," he said, and then, before she could make comment or reply, he turned and walked out of the room, his purpose evidently being not to embarrass her by his presence while she ate.

Enid Maitland had grown to relish the camp fare, bringing to it the appetite of good health and exertion. She had never eaten anything that tasted so good to her as that rude meal that morning, yet she would have enjoyed the brimming, smoking coffee pot on it better, she thought, if he had only shared it with her, if she had not been compelled to eat it alone. She hastened her meal on that account, determined as soon as she had finished her breakfast to seek the man and have some definite understanding with him.

And, after all, she reflected that she was better alone than in his presence, for there would come stealing into her thoughts the distressing episode of the morning before, try as she would to put it out of her mind. Well, she was a fairly sensible girl; the matter was passed, it could not be helped now, she would forget it as much as possible. She would recur to it with mortification later on, but the present was so full of grave problems that there was not any room for the past.

CHAPTER XII.

A Tour of Inspection.

The first thing necessary, she decided, when she had satisfied her hunger and finished her meal, was to get word of her plight and her resting place to her uncle and the men of the party, and the next thing was to get away, where she would never see this man again, and perhaps be able to forget what had transpired—yet there was a strange pang of pain in her heart at that thought!

No man on earth had ever so stimulated her curiosity as this one. Who was he? Why was he there? Who was the woman whose picture he had so quickly taken from her gaze? Why had so splendid a man buried himself alone in that wilderness? These reflections were presently interrupted by the reappearance of the man himself.

"Have you finished?" he asked, unceremoniously standing in the doorway as he spoke.

"Yes, thank you, and it was very good indeed."

Dismissing this politeness with a wave of his hand, but taking no other notice, he spoke again.

"If you will tell me your name—"

"Maitland, Enid Maitland."

"Miss Maitland?"

The girl nodded.

"And where you came from, I will endeavor to find your party and see what can be done to restore you to them."

"We were camped down that canon at a place where another brook, a large one, flows into it, several miles, I should think, below the place where—"

She was going to say "where you found me," but the thought of the way in which he had found her rushed over her again; and this time, with his glance directly upon her, although it was as cold and dispassionate and indifferent as a man's look could well be, the recollection of the meeting to which she had been about to allude rushed over her with an accompanying wave of color which heightened her beauty as it covered her with shame.

She could not realize that beneath his mask of indifference so deliberately worn, the man was as agitated as she, not so much at the remembrance of anything that had transpired, but at the sight, the splendid picture, of the woman as she stood there in the little cabin then. It seemed to him as if she gathered up in

"MY BABY SUFFERS SO"

Anxious Mothers Worried About Children's Eczema.

Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

Mothers are driven almost frantic with pity and anxiety over the sufferings of children with eczema or some other torturing rash.

So often are we asked what will give relief that we want every one to know about our new remedy, Saxon Salve, for all sorts of skin diseases, which is performing remarkable cures among children as well as grown persons.

Right at the start this soothing penetrating application allays the frightful itching and burning. And as it sinks into the skin it destroys the germs and exerts its powerful healing influence most thoroughly.

You cannot do better than to try Saxon Salve for eczema, tetter, ringworm or any crusted or scaly skin trouble. We give back your money if Saxon Salve does not satisfy you—F. B. Johnson & Co., druggists, Rushville, Ind.

her own person all the radiance and light and beauty, all the purity and freshness and splendor of the morning, to shine and dazzle in his face. As she hesitated in confusion, perhaps comprehending its cause, he helped out her lame and halting sentence.

"I know the canon well," he said. "I think I know the place to which you refer. Is it just above where the river makes an enormous bend upon itself?"

"Yes, that is it. In that clearing we have been camped for two weeks. My uncle must be crazy with anxiety to know what has become of me, and—"

The man interposed.

"I will go there directly," he said. "It is now half after ten. That place is about seven miles or more from here across the range, fifteen or twenty by the river. I shall be back by nightfall. The cabin is your own."

He turned away without another word.

"Wait," said the woman. "I am afraid to stay here."

She had been fearless enough before in those mountains, but her recent experience had somehow unsettled her nerves.

"There is nothing on earth to hurt you, I think," returned the man. "There isn't a human being, so far as I know, in these mountains."

"Except my uncle's party?"

He nodded.

"But there might be another—bear," she added desperately, forcing herself.

"Not likely; and they wouldn't come here if there were any. That's the first grizzly I have seen in years," he went on, unconcernedly, studiously looking away from her, not to add to her confusion at the remembrance of that awful episode which would obtrude itself on every occasion. "You can use a rifle or gun?"

She nodded. He stepped over to the wall and took down the Winchester which he handed her.

"This one is ready for service, and you will find a revolver on the shelf. There is only one possible way of access to this cabin; that's down those rock stairs. One man, one woman, a child, even, with these weapons could hold it against an army."

"Couldn't I go with you?"

"On that foot?"

Enid pressed her wounded foot upon the ground. It was not so painful when resting, but she found she could not walk a step on it without great suffering.

"I might carry you part of the way," said the man. "I carried you last night, but it would be impossible, all of it."

A HEALTHY, HAPPY OLD AGE

May be promoted by those who gently cleanse the system, now and then, when in need of a laxative remedy, by taking the ever refreshing, wholesome and truly beneficial Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, which is the only family laxative generally approved by the most eminent physicians, because it acts in a natural, strengthening way, and warms and tones up the internal organs without weakening them.

It is equally beneficial for the very young and the middle aged, as it is always efficient and free from all harmful ingredients. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine, bearing the name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package.

Is an almost certain result of kidney trouble. D. Toomey, 803 E. Olive street, Bloomington, Ill., says: "I suffered with backache and pains in my kidneys which were almost unbearable. CLELL MAPLE,

Riverside Park, Rushville, Indiana

"Promise me that you will be back by nightfall, with Uncle Bob and—"

"I shall be back by nightfall, but I can't promise that I will bring anybody with me."

"You mean?"

"You saw what the cloudburst nearly did for you," was the quick answer. "If they did not get out of that pocket, there is nothing left of them now."

"But they must have escaped," persisted the girl, fighting down her alarm at this blunt statement of possible peril. "Besides, Uncle Robert and most of the rest were climbing one of the peaks, and—"

"They will be all right, then; but if I am to find the place and tell them your story, I must go now."

He turned, and without another word or a backward glance, scrambled down the hill. The girl limped to the brink of the cliff over which he had plunged and stared after him. She watched him as long as she could see him, until he was lost among the trees. If she had anybody else to depend upon, she would certainly have felt differently toward him; when Uncle Robert, and her aunt, and the children, and old Kirkby, and the rest surrounded her, she could hate that man in spite of all he had done for her, but now she stared after him determinedly making his way down the mountain and through the trees. It was with difficulty she could restrain herself from calling him back.

The silence was most oppressive, the loneliness was frightful. She had been alone before in those mountains, but from choice; now the fact that there was no escape from them made the sensation a very different one.

She sat down and brooded over her situation until she felt that if she did not do something and in some way divert her thoughts she would break down again. He had said that the cabin and its contents were hers. She resolved to inspect them more closely. She hobbled back into the great room and looked about her again. There was nothing that demanded careful scrutiny. She wasn't quite sure whether she was within the proprieties or not, but she seized the oldest and most worn of the volumes on the shelf. It was a text book on mining and metallurgy, she observed, and opening it to the fly leaf, across the page she saw written in a firm, vigorous masculine hand a name, "William Berkeley Newbold," and beneath these words, "Thayer Hall, Harvard," and a date some seven years back.

The owner of that book, whether the present possessor or not, had been a college man. Say that he had graduated at twenty-one or twenty-two, he would be twenty-eight or twenty-nine years old now, but if so, why that white hair? Perhaps, though, the book did not belong to the man of the cabin.

She turned to other books on the shelf. Many of them were technical books, which she had sufficient general culture to realize could be only available to a man highly educated, and a special student of mines and mining—a mining engineer, she decided, with a glance at those instruments and appliances of a scientific character plainly, but of whose actual use she was ignorant.

A rapid inspection of the other books confirmed her in the conclusion that the man of the mountains was indeed the owner of the collection. There were a few well worn volumes of poetry and essays, Shakespeare, a Bible, Bacon, Marcus Aurelius, Epictetus, Keats, a small dictionary, a compendious encyclopedia, just the books, she thought, smiling at her conceit, that a man of education and culture would want to have upon a desert island where his supply of literature would be limited.

The old ones were autographed as the first book she had looked in; others, newer additions to the little library, if she could judge their condition, were unsigned.

Into the corner cupboard and the drawers, of course, she did not look. There was nothing else in the room to attract her attention, save some piles of manuscript neatly arranged on one of the shelves, each one covered with a square of board and kept in place by pieces of glistening quartz.

This is the Stove Polish YOU Should Use

It's different from others because more care is taken in the making and the materials used are of higher grade.

Black Silk Stove Polish

Makes a brilliant, silky polish that does not rub off or dust off, and the shine lasts four times as long as ordinary stove polish. Used on sample stoves and sold by hardware dealers. All we ask is a trial. Use it on your cook stove, your parlor stove or your gas range. If you don't find it the best stove polish you ever used, your dealer is authorized to refund your money. Insist on Black Silk Stove Polish. Made in liquid or paste—one quality. BLACK SILK STOVE POLISH WORKS, Sterling, Illinois. Use Black Silk Air-Drying Iron Enamel on grates, registers, stove pipes—Prevents rusting. Use Black Silk Metal Polish for silver, nickel or brass. It has no equal for use on automobiles.

MINE EXPERTS GAVE UP HOPE

No Possible Chance of Rescuing Entombed Men.

THEIR ESCAPE WAS CUT OFF

Explosion in Coal Mine at McCurtain, Okla., Started a Blaze Which Precluded Possibility of Rescue, and Government Crew of Experts Was Compelled to Abandon the Hopeless Task—Seventy-nine Men Doomed.

McCurtain, Okla., March 21.—For the seventy-nine miners who were entombed in mine No. 2 of the San Bois Coal company, located on the west side of McCurtain, all hope has been abandoned. The government mine experts who were summoned to McCurtain from McAlester announce that there is no possible chance to rescue any of the entombed men alive and that they will return to their station at McAlester.

An explosion wrecked the mine, carried away the tippie and damaged the fan-house so badly that it was not until six hours had elapsed that a small quantity of air could be forced into the pit. Eleven men escaped safely from the mine. Ninety men, according to an official bulletin issued by the coal company, had entered the mine for work. The first rescue party crept into the mine half an hour after the explosion. At the bottom of the pit they met eleven men creeping about in the smoke which momentarily became more dense. The rescuers dragged them forth. The men were almost suffocated, and three of them may die.

The entombed miners were working in a remote chamber which has no direct access to the main shaft. Collections of fire damp had been noticed for some days and extra efforts were made to secure ventilation on the part of the operators. It was thought this explosive gas had been cleared out. It is believed that gas came in contact with an open flame carried by one of the miners, which set off the explosion.

TEN HUSBANDS

This Is the Remarkable Score Attributed to This Woman.

Allentown, Pa., March 21.—On a charge that she had married ten husbands and had not been divorced from any, Mrs. Jennie Schwoyer, twenty-seven years old and good looking, the wife of an Allentown ice man, is in jail.

Her first husband, Frank Miller, left her a widow at eighteen. Previous to her becoming the wife of Edward Schwoyer, her present spouse, she had been married to John Gehris of this city, but left him after a year. Her other husbands, she declares, were men of no account, and not worth mentioning. She says Schwoyer's act in prosecuting her is a low-down piece of spite work, because she found it necessary some time ago to have him arrested for non-support. The seven other husbands, so far as Alderman Bower and county detectives have been able to find out, were men named Gowan, Myers, Barber, Williams, Stephens, Henry, Noll and Miller.

THE DOG'S ERROR

Led to the Loss of $5,000 Worth of Revenue Stamps.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., March 21.—A messenger boy employed in the office of the Greendale Distilling company's plant lost a package of government stamps valued at $5,000 while going from the office of the deputy revenue collector to the distillery. The boy was eating a sandwich, and was being followed by a hound, to which a part of his lunch had been given. Suddenly the dog jumped at the boy and caught the package of stamps in its mouth and disappeared in an alley with the boy in pursuit. The police were notified, and, with the office force of the distillery, made a vigorous search, but were unable to find either the stamps or the hound.

KNOX'S VALET

Secretary Will Be Asked to Explain How He Got Him.

Washington, March 21.—Representative Hamlin of Missouri, chairman of the house committee on expenditures in the state department, announced that he had learned that Secretary Knox's valet, who is accompanying the secretary on his South American trip, is a $1,200 employee of the state department mailing room. The Hamlin committee is investigating the case and will summon the secretary to testify on his return.

The Hamlin committee also developed the fact that no one at the state department has any idea at the present time where the money is coming from to defray the expenses of the secretary's South American trip.

SPRING APPEARS WITH EARMUFFS

Belated Season Has to Wade in Over-shoes and Furs and Winter Wraps.

TEMPERATURE BELIES TIME

Lowering Mercury is Due to Deal Even More Severe Blow to Gladsome Season.

Spring was due to appear today, according to the popular belief. This belief is supported by the dictionary in a measure. The book of which Daniel Webster was the author says the gladsome season is due annually about March 21. Those who have consulted the calendar will learn that today's the day.

But here is where authorities disagree. Certain astronomers and editors of almanacs make a strong plea for March 20. They declare positively that spring always comes to life March 20. At any rate spring must be here today. Whether it came last night at twenty-one minutes after five as astronomers declare it did, people of Rushville will never know.

Spring was expected to come upon the horizon this year under ver adverse circumstances. The weather bureau has been predicting a cold wave now for two days. The temperature is lower and the weather is disagreeable, but the cold was not so severe as it was forecast it would be.

Last night the temperature just did get below the freezing point and that's all. This morning the thermometer registered a temperature of thirty above. That is colder than it was all day yesterday. But the weather bureau still has the cold stop pulled out and even colder weather is promised for tonight.

One usually thinks of spring as a beautiful young maiden clad in the fashionable garments of the day, tripping lightly along with birds, bees, flowers, poets and other excess baggage in her wake. But today Miss Spring was forced to arrive with her throat wrapped up, her low shoes packed in her trunk and her thin dresses all laid carefully away in tissue paper. She is still wearing her heavy ones, although she is supposed to be the forerunner of the athletic kind.

The only nice thing about spring so far has been the fact that the weather was too cold to allow spring poets to get in much of their work. Sitting on a grassy hillside courting the muse is all very nice in the old fashioned spring time. But in this kind of weather he who sits on the hillside and tries to write spring verses will likely learn that he has been courting pneumonia instead of the muse.

The coming of the spring season this week was accompanied by the time-honored flourishes. A thunder-shower Sunday night was the first hint. Fair and warmer weather Monday was a fooler. Tuesday's drop in temperature, accompanied by thunder, lightning and rain, was a special performance of what is known as an equinoctial storm. All of these announcements having been made, spring is ushered in and is now officially and actually here. However, this paper has yet to hear of the man who has already planted his potatoes.

Notice of Election.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Rushville Co-Operative Telephone Company will be held in the assembly room at the court house in the city of Rushville, Indiana at 7:30 p. m. DECISION LIES WITH LOCAL SCHOOL HEADS

Whether Pupils of Accredited Schools May Graduate From Commissioned Schools is Question.

CAP AND GOWN DISCUSSION

Charles A. Greathouse, State superintendent of public instruction, is preparing to issue notice to the commissioned high schools of the State of a ruling by the State board of education concerning graduation from commissioned high schools after three years work in accredited schools, says the Indianapolis News. The standard for commissioned high school graduation was placed at thirty-two credits, while the accredited schools have only twenty-eight credits. Whether pupils from accredited schools are to be permitted to graduate from the commissioned schools with an additional year is to be left to the high school principal and the superintendent of the school.

The State board indorsed an opinion sent out by the State superintendent, to the effect that while a school board might refuse to permit a student to participate in a high school commencement unless he wore a cap and gown, where caps and gowns have been prescribed by the school board, the student can not be prevented from receiving his diploma or certificate of graduation for this reason.

CANDIDATES COME NEXT

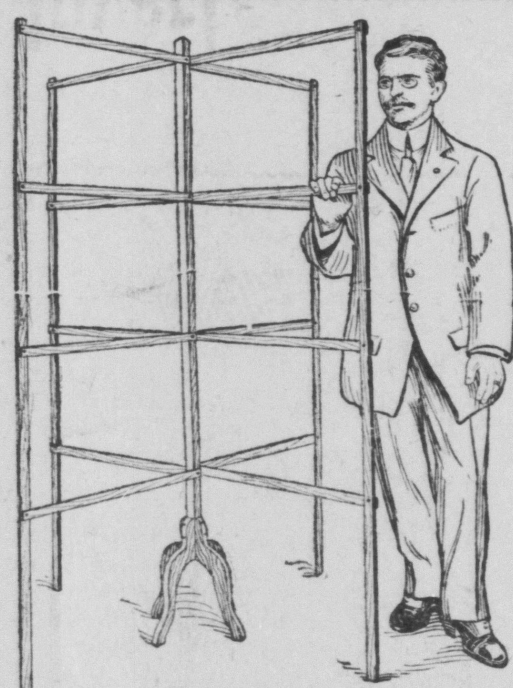

Sixth District Republicans to turn Attention to Nomination.

Interest in the contest for delegates to the Republican convention from the Sixth district has been overshadowing the congressional situation, but following the Connersville convention it is expected the district Republicans will turn their attention to pick out an opponent for Congressman Finly Gray. Richmond may be the place for holding the congressional convention, and Richmond also will provide one of the candidates in the person of Charles W. Jordan, secretary of the Richmond Commercial club, and formerly superintendent of the Wayne county schools.
